

RevenueCat: Creating Offerings, Products, and Entitlements

RevenueCat is a powerful platform that simplifies in-app subscriptions and paywalls. This document provides a brief overview of how to configure offerings, product IDs, and entitlements within RevenueCat, specifically in relation to App Store Connect.

Offerings

An Offering in RevenueCat represents a set of products that you want to make available to your users. You can have multiple offerings to cater to different user segments or to test various paywall strategies.

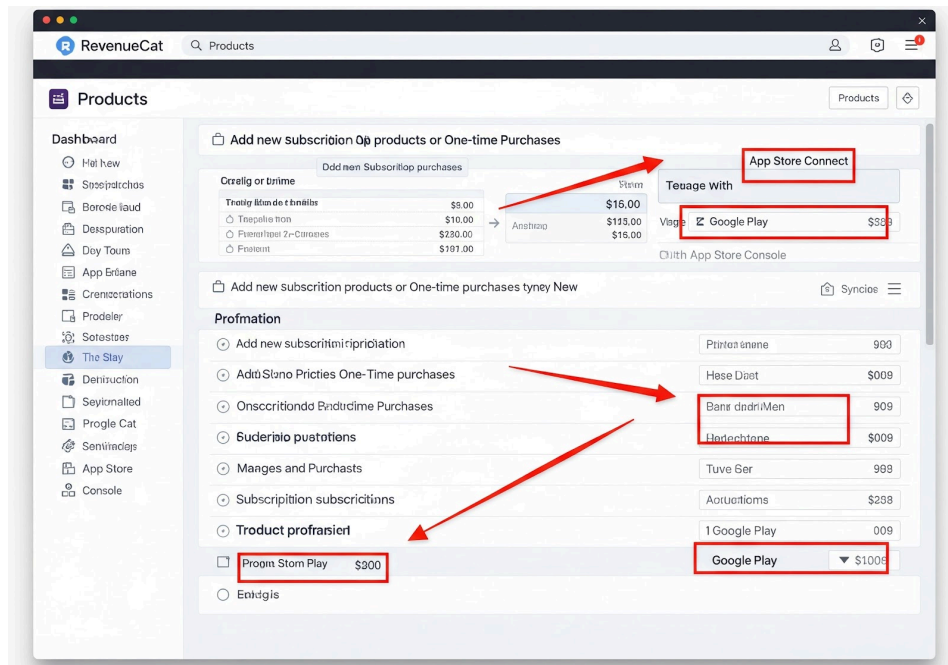

To create an Offering:

- Navigate to "Offerings" in your RevenueCat dashboard.
- Click "New Offering" and give it a descriptive name (e.g., "Standard Offering," "Premium Offering").
- You can then associate products with this offering.

Products (Product IDs)

Products in RevenueCat correspond to the subscription or in-app purchase items you have configured in App Store Connect (for iOS) or Google Play Console (for Android). These are defined by their unique Product IDs.

To create or link a Product:

- Ensure your subscription products are already set up in App Store Connect.
- In RevenueCat, go to "Products."
- Click "New Product" or "Sync with App Store Connect/Google Play." Most of the time its easier this way.
- Enter the exact Product ID as defined in App Store Connect.
- Select the correct platform (iOS/Android) and product type (e.g., auto-renewable subscription, non-consumable).

Entitlements

An Entitlement defines what a user "gets" when they successfully purchase a product. It's essentially the access level or feature set unlocked by a subscription. Entitlements are often tied to specific products within an offering.

To create an Entitlement:

- Go to "Entitlements" in your RevenueCat dashboard.
- Click "New Entitlement" and provide a unique identifier (e.g., "premium_access," "pro_features").
- Now, you can link this entitlement to your products within an offering. This means when a user purchases a specific product, they are granted the associated entitlement.

By properly configuring offerings, products, and entitlements in RevenueCat, you can effectively manage your in-app subscriptions and deliver a seamless payroll experience to your users.
